AN HILARIOUS WORDLESS COMEDY SERIES!

In two-minute short episodes, we follow the exploits of a pitiful antihero with a big mustache, who invariably has bad luck on his side. His naivety, selfishness, vanity and clumsiness, make him a charming and universal loser, whether he is a farmer or a pirate, a knight or an astronaut. It always ends wrong for Dickie, to the delight of the viewer. Dickie has no idea how society works. He views our world as an alien. He always starts with the best intentions, but things invariably turn out wrong. Despite his many human shortcomings, we still feel sympathy for Dickie and identify with him, because there is a Dickie in each of us.

Easier said than done when you're only 9 years old, the absolute worst age in life: too old to be a cute little kid, too young to make your own decisions and live the way you want. Seriously, dude, Shakespeare, eat your heart out.

There's Victoria the vampire, charmingly nasty and definitely NOT into Larry. Definitely. Or Frank, aka the experiment gone TOTALLY wrong. He's a cute drummer. It's just that his brain slips out of his skull sometimes. Mummy, though, is a three-thousand-year-old free-spirited teenage genius composer. You have to hear her Concerto for Five Coffins.

When Ninoo, cheeky and spontaneous as a 4 year-old child, picks up the phone, the kids world smashes the adult's universe! Night watchman, IT engineer, daddy's office, mechanic... Brigitte Lecordier, comedian and famous voice of French dubbing (especially in animation) over the past decades, takes a child's voice who might be either a boy or a girl, and calls at random people to solve small issues: «I lost my marble in the bath, I call... the sewer service!», «I can't fall asleep, I need a story telling, I call... the night watchman!», «I don't like the car's steering wheel, I call... the mechanic!». As many situations in which people and professionals answer the kid with kindness and patience, without knowing it is a joke!

Ari, Mac, Yuyu and Puk are the Copy Cut : a bunch of teenagers fond of cosplay. Their favorite game: dressing up like their beloved characters! Their inspiration : the pop culture i.e. comic books, movies, video games, TV series... and more. Selected for THE great Tokyo contest, the four heroes embark in the vintage van of Babouze, the «hippy» grandma of Mac. And here they go for a crazy costumed world trip during their summer holidays!

But the road is long and full of obstacles. Facing unexpected situations, the Copy Cut use their ingenuity and their talent of entertainers to solve problems... And it works! Well, as long as it doesn't cause big issues...
